LUXE LAYERS

For years, San Francisco-based designer Tina Frey has wowed the design world with her luminous resin serveware in fluid, organic forms and an assortment of saturated hues. For her spring 2016 collection, Frey has taken a shine to copper. Perfect for layering with the line's crisp-white trays and bowls, the rich, rosy serving pieces will add a touch of earthy glamour to alfresco entertaining all year long. From $64, 503found, 503 31st St., Newport Beach, 949.877.0147, 503found.com

UPPER CRUST

Transport your backyard dinner party to Napoli with Kalamazoo Outdoor Gourmet's Artisan Fire Pizza Oven. The stainless steel hearth makes the flavor of Old World pies simple to achieve with an easy-to-regulate gas-fueled flame that mimics the cooking method and heat of a wood-fire oven. Plus, with just a 45-minute preheat time, you'll have perfect alfresco pizzas in a pinch. $6,895, Pirch, 101 S. Brand Blvd., Glendale, 818.743.9999, pirch.com

Kitchen Confidential

Terra Ferma Landscapes owner Brian Koch—also a licensed landscape architect and contractor—shares his outdoor kitchen essentials.

"We primarily use Lynx outdoor kitchen appliances and products. Their designs are sleek and fitting for all aesthetics. Their built-in LED lights are great, and the lighted dash shows well in the evening. By adding cool touches like installed trash and recycle receptacles, clutter and trash can be put away easily. In addition, we have been building many drop-in 'coolers' for drinks and ice—basically sinks without the faucets—that act as a self-serve beverage stop for entertaining."

WHITE OUT

Culver City-based Inner Gardens is much more than a nursery. Besides offering full-service landscape and event design and myriad foliage options, the selection of planters is second to none. Rare midcentury-modern pieces by Swiss architect Willy Guhl—including the Diablo, Hourglass and Handkerchief styles seen below (from $1,850)—will patina beautifully and add a timeless sculptural element. 5838 Perry Drive, Culver City, 310.838.8378, innergardens.com

DREAM WEAVER

Bringing her signature elegant style outdoors, San Francisco-based designer Suzanne Tucker has recently launched the Riviera Collection—a Santa Barbara-inspired line of teak and handwoven easy-care resin wicker outdoor furniture on powder-coated aluminum frames—for Michael Taylor Designs. Standout pieces include the perfectly proportioned dining chair and sun chaise. To the trade only, 135 Rhode Island St., San Francisco, 415.934.9400, michaeltaylordesigns.com
